Consciousness: The WebCourse

The University of Arizona
Sponsored by the University of Arizona Center for Consciousness Studies

CONSCIOUSNESS: THE WEBCOURSE FALL 2008

will focus on evidence and theory about our conscious experience embracing all three classical approaches:

Personal, Intersubjective & Scientific

First Person

Second Person

Third

Person Each week will have a lecture (in print and audio). In experiential phenomenology labs, we will explore personal experiences of dreams, perceptual illusions, feelings of knowing, emotional highs and lows, the fleeting present and unconscious influences. We will also look at the second person perspective, what it means for an “I” to encounter a “Thou.” Finally, we will explore recent brain studies of higher states of consciousness.

Instructor:
Bernard J. Baars, PhD

All materials will be available online. Textbook purchases are encouraged (about 20 dollars). Small group discussions will be webcast on Saturdays and Sundays, then archived.

SEPTEMBER 20 to DECEMBER 7, 2008
